Russian Piston Aero Engines Aug 27 2020 The Russian aircraft industry has, over the years, produced a staggering number of aircraft, large and small, for civil and military purposes. These aircraft have been powered by an equally extraordinary number of engines, built in Russian factories to both native and foreign designs. This detailed study of the piston aero engines produced by Russian factories from the birth of flight to the present is a tour de force of historical research, which has used many resources and archives not previously known in the west. The book includes every piston engine built from an original Russian design or copied from a foreign design; from engines used in the first Russian flying machines to microlight engines still in production. Each is written with its history, specifications and details of use.

Aerodynamic Characteristics of the NACA 747A315 and 747A415 Airfoils from Tests in the NACA Two-dimensional Low-turbulence Pressure Tunnel Jan 12 2022 Summary: Two low-drag airfoils, the NACA 747A315 and the NACA 747A415, designed to have reduced pitching moments about the quarter-chord point and moderately high values of the design lift coefficient have been tested in the NACA two-dimensional low-turbulence pressure tunnel. Section lift, drag, and pitching-moment coefficients are presented for Reynolds numbers of 3×10^6 , 6×10^6 , and 9×10^6 , together with section lift and section drag data for a Reynolds number of 6×10^6 for the same airfoils with roughened leading edges.
