Finally, a book that presents the facts, dispels the myths, and shows you how to be green without having to compromise yourself and your home. The first book of its kind, this is a book just about the ins and outs of laundry. Carin began to research a greener way of life, not for profit or for business gain but to incorporate it with her most prized job, being a mother, grandmother, and wife. She explores the meaning of green, the fads and the facts, so that anyone can easily make their own decisions about what to do. This book is filled with tips and stories that will give you and your family a new perspective on that never-ending chore called laundry. Her biggest fear is that traditional washing and drying will become obsolete, replaced by overpriced appliances and thoughtless damaging laundry products. She has added laundry to the American Experience, with an alcove of rich stories about generations of laundry and love that she has collected on her journey to reconnect with Mother Nature. Love laundry or hate laundry, this collection of short stories will present you with endless reasons to make laundry a part of your life...and how! A householder's guide to plumbing-in, maintaining and repairing domestic washing machines. For Cheryl Mendelson, laundering is the best part of housekeeping. It's full of physical pleasures—the look of favorite clothes restored to freshness and beauty, the tactile satisfaction of crisp linens in beautifully folded stacks. Good laundering preserves things you love and protects your pocketbook. It doesn't take much time or effort. What it takes is knowledge, and Laundry is the comprehensive, entertaining, and inspiring book on the art of laundering. Culled from the bestselling Home Comforts, with revised and updated information and a new introduction, Laundry is an indispensable guide to caring for all the cloth in one's home: from kitchen rags to bedding, hand-washables, and baby clothes to vintage linens. Mendelson offers detailed guidance on when to disregard labels, removing stains, making environmentally informed choices, sewing, and storing clothing and fabrics. A much-needed antidote to the standard-issue how-to manual, Laundry celebrates the satisfactions of ironing, folding, and caring for clothes and linens. Both pragmatic and eloquent, Mendelson provides beginning and veteran homemakers with a seamless combination of reliable instruction, time-tested advice, and fascinating personal narrative. As a farm girl in Pennsylvania, Mendelson—who is a philosopher, lawyer, and professor, as well as a homemaker, wife, and mother—received a classic domestic education from her grandmothers, aunts, and mother. Laundry combines the best of the traditional lore they taught her with the latest in technical and scientific information. Writing with infectious love and respect for her subject, Mendelson is sure to instill in readers a newfound affection and appreciation for the art of laundering. Excerpt from Laundry Manual In presenting this little book to the public, the aim has been to furnish a book the need of which has long been felt by the authors. The course, as treated in this manual, having been used with success in their respective schools for several years, has now been placed in book form, in the hope that it will be an aid to instructors and at the same time be a help to the housewife. The outline of lessons has been added as a suggestion to instructors for presenting the course in twelve lessons of two and a half hours each, to classes of eight students. This outline, together with the arrangement of chapters, has been based upon the assortment of clothes in the introductory chapter. The illustrations have been designed to show clearly the methods of folding garments. The chapter on stains has been arranged in tabulated form to facilitate reference. With a knowledge of chemistry, students will be able to appreciate the reactions employed in the removal of stains. The authors acknowledge with pleasure their indebtedness to Miss Eva J. Phelps, Instructor of English in Boardman Manual Training High School, for corrections in the manuscript; and to Miss L. H. Dayton, Instructor of Wood Carving in Boardman Manual Training High School, for the illustrations which have been drawn especially for this book. Excerpt from The Laundry Manual In presenting this work, we feel that it will be well received by the laundry fraternity at large. Many and various requests have been made for indexing, classifying or compiling a work of this nature. We have done all three to a certain extent. Every article was very carefully selected by a practical laundryman, who devoted much time and energy to make it intelligent; selecting the most interesting and valuable articles published in the National Laundry Journal during the years of 1896 and 1897. Many articles contained herein are the product of the brightest, best and most brainy men in the business, and their individual opinions and experiences are given therein. These opinions differ naturally, being formed from experience in different localities, under various conditions as to water, soaps, etc.; and as the best minds will differ even under exact conditions, we will not attempt to decide which is correct where differences appear, but leave that for the reader, reminding him that in applying rules or suggestions laid down herein he should take into consideration the relation of the conditions under which he must apply them, and the conditions under which they were applied by the various writers. Excerpt from A Guide to Laundry-Work: A Manual for Home and School A High School girl who was studying chemistry at the same time that she took a course in laundry work found so many opportunities to apply her more formal laboratory science in her manual work that she once exclaimed enthusiastically to her teacher: "I think chemistry was made for laundry work!" Aside from its value as a correlation field for both physics and chemistry, laundry work is an excellent form of manual training for girls, offering, as it does, many of the advantages of the forge work for boys. The rough garment, like the crude metal, has to be modeled by the application of heat and pressure; the iron must be the right temperature, the pressure must be skillfully applied, faulty parts must be gone over and over again until the right surface and texture is produced. Even the rougher cleansing processes, restoring the soiled linen to its original freshness and purity, may be made truly educative in fostering a love of dainty and perfect cleanliness - that outward sign of the inward grace of true refinement which forever distinguishes the gentlewoman. To the Home Maker Some people say laundry work is on its way out of the home, just as weaving and dyeing and other activities have wended their way out of the home and into the factory.
